Historical Significance of Property: Zina Hill Barbershop from the lost village of Moulinette. This original building was purchased by Harold Fickes, former deputy-reeve for the Township of Cornwall, at the time of the Seaway and Hydro Project, for ten dollars, and was moved to his farm north of Moulinette on the Second Concession. The building was then passed on to Bob and Sherry Lyons, who donated it in 1997 to the Lost Villages Historical Society. Mr. Hill's "one-and-only" barber's chair stands in the shop, as well as a replica of his illuminated sign and his barber's pole. This building provides an authentic look at a barber shop from a time and place that no longer exists. (Lostvillages.ca)

Historical Significance of Property: Ault Park is a park on the St. Lawrence River in the Township of South Stormont, near Long Sault, Ontario, Canada. Originally on Sheek's Island, the park was built on family property donated to the Township of Cornwall by Levi Addison Ault. The original site of Ault Park on Sheek Island was also the site of an important archaeological excavation between 1956 and 1958, before the island and dig site were permanently submerged under 14-feet of water for the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Historical Significance of Property: The Moulinette Station was erected 1910 through the lobbying efforts of Mr. John G. Snetsinger, Member of Parliament for Stormont County, 1896-1900. The station served passengers on the Grand Trunk/Canadian National Railway at Moulinette, Ontario. It received passengers, mail, and goods via the Moccasin train on its runs between Brockville and Montreal. The Moulinette Station was donated to The Lost Villages Historical Society by Mrs. Olive Alguire, widow of Elgin. (Lostvillages.ca)

Historical Significance of Property: The Ernie McDonald Blacksmith Shop was originally built on the J. McDonald farm, Lot 1, Concession 3, Township of Cornwall. Interior evidence reveals that this structure was once a dwelling, or part of a dwelling, estimated to have been built circa 1850. Partially planked walls, some of which were originally lined with brick, surround the single room, which served the blacksmith trade. (Lostvillages.ca)

Historical Significance of Property: The Corn Crib, built circa 1860, was not from one of the lost villages. It was originally on the J. Fulton farm, Lot 37, Concession 5, Township of Cornwall, which was just north of Moulinette. It is typical of corn cribs of the period and is constructed from sawn planks over a frame of hewn and rough timber. It has a steep-pitched roof and slanted sides, which allowed the rain to run off away from the building, keeping the corn dry. (Lostvillages.ca)

Historical Significance of Property: The Manson/Lapierre Store or the “General Store”, as it was commonly known as, is an example of a typical working general store from any of the “lost villages”. This building was originally part of a barn until Howard Manson moved and converted it into a store, in 1928, which he ran for a decade. The cash register on the counter came from Markell’s Store in Wales and was a working cash register for the store until 2001 and remains as a genuine artifact on display. The clock on the wall is stopped at 8:00 am., the exact time that the cofferdam between Sheek’s and Barnhart islands was blown up. (Lostvillages.ca)

Historical Significance of Property: Simon Fraser, this famous fur trader and explorer, son of a Loyalist officer, was born in what is now Vermont and came to Canada in 1784. He entered the fur trade with the North West Company in 1792 and in 1805 was placed in charge of operations west of the Rocky Mountains. In 1808, while searching for a water route to the Pacific, Fraser descended the turbulent river which bears his name. The skill and daring required to traverse those 800 km with their violent whirlpools and rapids make this feat one of the most outstanding in the exploration of Canada. Retiring from the Company in 1817, he settled on this property where he farmed and operated mills. (waymarking.com)

Historical Significance of Property: The cemetery in St. Andrews West, along with its church, is one of the oldest in Ontario. It's the resting place for notable individuals such as John Sandfield MacDonal, the first premier of Ontario, Simon Fraser. The exact number of burials is unknown, as not all burials were recorded or marked. A replica of the first church, can be seen in the original location. The inactive Cemetery is a focal point in the village of St. Andrews West and showcases how the community has grown around these churches.

Historical Significance of Property: The First Cornwall Township Council meeting took place in St. Andrews on January 21, 1850. Until 1855 meetings were conducted in members' homes or at William Eamer's hotel. The Township Hall was erected on the front of the east half of Lot 18, Concession 4 on land purchased from John Milroy on June 13, 1855. The building also functioned as a community center which saw many dances, showers, suppers, socials and even housed the Post Office prior to the advent of rural delivery. This property is privately owned and not open to the public. (cornwallcommunitymuseum.wordpress.com)

Historical Significance of Property: This single, detached brick building with a Mansard style roof was originally built for George C. Forbes as a reading room (library) for the village of Newington in 1901. This building one of the most historic buildings in the Township of South Stormont, constructed as a public institution. The Forbes Memorial Reading Room was given as a gift to the community of Newington in the name of Mrs. Peter Forbes (Isabella), mother of George C. Forbes. On October 7, 1901, a meeting was held for the purpose of starting a Public Library on the grounds donated by Dr. Munroe. The only condition was that it should always be kept open, to all races and creeds. (Lostvillages.ca)

Historical Significance of Property: Quinn's Inn was built in 1865 by John Sandfield MacDonald, who served as Ontario's First Premier, from 1867-1871. The building continued in operation as a hotel until it was gutted by fire in 1879 and was purchased by William and Elizabeth Masterson in 1895, who it is believed, renovated the interior. The building opened under their management as a store, barber's shop and post office a few years later. In 1924 Frank Quinn became owner, followed by his sons Maynard, Alfred and Ernest in 1948. It continued as a general store until 1989 when it was purchased and historically restored by the Quinn family. Currently Quinn's Inn is owned and operated as a restaurant and banquet hall by the Belmore Family. (<http://www.quinnsinn.ca/history.htm>)
